In recent years, anthropologists, historians, and others have been drawn to study the profuse and creative usages of digital media by religious movements. At the same time, scholars of Christian Africa have long been concerned with the history of textual culture, the politics of Bible translation, and the status of the vernacular in Christianity. Students of Islam in Africa have similarly examined politics of knowledge, the transmission of learning in written form, and the influence of new media. Until now, however, these arenas—Christianity and Islam, digital media and “old” media—have been studied separately. Religion, Media, and Marginality in Modern Africa is one of the first volumes to put new media and old media into significant conversation with one another, and also offers a rare comparison between Christianity and Islam in Africa. The contributors find many previously unacknowledged correspondences among different media and between the two faiths. In the process they challenge the technological determinism—the notion that certain types of media generate particular forms of religious expression—that haunts many studies. In evaluating how media usage and religious commitment intersect in the social, cultural, and political landscapes of modern Africa, this collection will contribute to the development of new paradigms for media and religious studies. Contributors: Heike Behrend, Andre Chappatte, Maria Frahm-Arp, David Gordon, Liz Gunner, Bruce S. Hall, Sean Hanretta, Jorg Haustein, Katrien Pype, and Asonzeh Ukah.

Marriage is the voluntary union for life of one man and one woman to the exclusion of all others. It is about two people who love each other but it is more than that. This book covers the argument and ten reasons why traditional marriage should be defended.

An official certificate of every birth, death, marriage, and divorce should be on file in the locality where the event occurred. This directory, updated to January 2009, lists each state in alphabetical order with the information for the appropriate offices that keep these records. It also provides instructions on how to write to an office to receive a copy of an official record.

Adoption is one of the most emotive and complex subjects in social and family history. Gill Rossini’s social history of adoption between 1850 and 1961 uncovers the perspectives of all those concerned in adoption: children, birth relatives, adoptive families, and all the agencies and organisations involved. Rossini charts the transformation of the adoption process from a chaotic informal arrangement to a legal procedure. Set against the backdrop of the moral, cultural, and legal climate of the times, the contemporary voices of those who played a part in an adoption give real insights into this often turbulent period in their lives. Discover how shocking stories of baby farmers and unwanted orphans fuelled the campaign for change, and hear previously untold stories.For those who wish to conduct their own research into an adoption, Rossini has compiled a comprehensive guide to resources.

In dit boek staan de ervaringen van Zuidaziatische moslimvrouwen centraal. In het Verenigd Koninkrijk doen sommigen van hen beroep op het religieus recht – m.n. de Shariah – om te bemiddelen bij huwelijkskwesties. Deze religieuze rechtspraak wordt door de Britse Staat niet erkend, te meer omdat in het Westen het beeld heerst dat vrouwen in de shariah-rechtspraak steeds aan het kortste eind trekken. Het bestaan van dergelijke onofficiële bemiddelingsinstanties vormt een uitdaging voor de seculiere staat. Immers, hoe ver mag de hang naar een eigen culturele identiteit van een minderheid gaan? Er zou zich vandaag de dag een nieuwe invulling van de shariah aan het ontwikkelen zijn, één die zich nog steeds inspireert op de moslimtraditie, maar die de vrouw niet langer onderdrukt. Het fenomeen van de shariah, als onderdeel van een claim naar meer autonomie vanwege de moslimgemeenschap, is tot op heden weinig onderzocht.
