Zulu plant names
do not just identify plants, they tell us
much more about the plant, as well as how it is perceived
or used in Zulu culture. For example, the plant
name

umhlulambazo

('what defeats the axe') tells us that this is a tree with hard, dense wood,
and that
usondelangange ('come closer so I can embrace you')
is a tree with large
thorns that snags
the passer-by. In a similar vein, both umakuphole ('let it

cool down') and icishamlilo ('put out the fire') refer to plants that are used medicinally to treat fevers and inflammations.

Plants used as the base of love-charms
have names that are particularly colorful, such as unginakile ('she has

uvelabahleke (‘appear and they smile’), and the wonderfully named
ungcingci-wafika-

have arrived, my sweetheart!’). And then, there are those plant names
that are just plain

intriguing, if not
mystifying:
umakhandakansele (‘the heads of Mr

isandlasonwabu

intombikayibhinci (‘the girl does not wear clothes’), and ukhuningomile
