One of the myths surrounding Arabic is that the script is impossible to learn. This is not true. Writing Arabic is much easier than you would imagine. Arabic uses an alphabet, not hieroglyphs or pictograms. And there are far fewer shapes to master in Arabic than in the European languages. In Arabic there is really only one basic shape for each of the 28 letters of the alphabet. There are no capital letters and there is no real distinction between print and handwriting. Furthermore, writing from right to left is not as difficult as many people would imagine. In many ways it is a more natural movement to be pushing the pen rather than pulling it, certainly for someone who is right handed. This guide will take you through the Arabic alphabet, letter by letter, explain how to write each letter, how to combine the letters, and it will provide plenty of opportunities for practise. This guide is also a great first introduction to the Arabic language.

How much time does a learner need to spend learning to write Chinese characters? Do you need to write every Chinese character that you learn? How many times do you need to write a Chinese character? Is it effective to write a full page of the same Chinese character repeatedly? How to remember all the strokes in a Chinese character easily? Your child will be able to Identify the PARTS (strokes and Chinese Alphabets) in Chinese characters. This will help to build a strong foundation for higher learning Learn in MULTIPLE WAYS - tracing, colouring, writing, visualising (or choose one way that suits your child) Understand the MEANING of the Chinese characters through PICTURES. (Pronunciation and English meaning included) Develop hand dexterity to write big and small characters (or focus on big characters first and finish the small characters later) CONTENT OF GET READY FOR SCHOOL CHINESE WORKBOOK 1 (EASY) 47 Chinese characters NOT more than 6 strokes (with 1 to 3 parts) Pictures for colouring Activities to recall characters learnt Blank handwriting papers METHODOLOGY Many learners dread Chinese writing drills - repeating pages and pages of the same Chinese characters. Writing can be fun if done moderately and in varied ways. Your child will be engaged because we Limit writing exercises to about 10 repetitions per character Create varied activities (e.g. varying word sizes, alternating between similar-looking characters, creating tracing and colouring options) Present strokes in cartoons with easy-to-remember names Provide more than one way to learn - trace, colour, write, visualise If your purpose is to develop the ability to RECALL the Chinese characters you learn, writing the characters is only one way to register them in your mind. More importantly, you need to be able to VISUALISE it, that is able to see the components in the character, how they are combined and the order they are combined. In our books, we teach Chinese characters broken down into PARTS (not strokes only). A part can be a stroke or a Chinese Alphabet. A Chinese Alphabet is a repetitive component that is made up of 2 to 6 strokes. Learning Chinese Alphabets before learning Chinese characters helps to reduce memory work - don't remember a character by disintegrated strokes, remember it by PARTS (strokes and alphabets) and do it systematically. VISUALISE CHINESE CHARACTERS Look out for the " LEARN CHINESE VISUALLY (1 to 10) " series of books to help children visualise strokes, Chinese Alphabets and characters in COLOURS! Write it in Arabic is an alphabet guide and workbook which offers a hands-on approach to learning Arabic. The book covers the 28 letters of the Arabic alphabet, numbers, vowel marks and handwriting. This workbook includes plenty of examples that teach how to read and write the Arabic script, guides students through the pronunciation of each letter while introducing them to new vocabulary. This book opens from right to left, like any book printed in Arabic.

Alif Baa Tracing and Practice Level –1– This Book can be used by adults and kids of all ages. The purpose of this book is to help you learn how to draw calligraphic lines and forms of the Arabic language. The letters are big enough to practice writing with ease. Repeating the exercise will develop your accuracy and help you visually memorize the shapes of the Arabic alphabet letters. This will prepare you to learn how to read and write Arabic faster. Some letters change form depending on their location in the word, however, this notebook only focuses on writing the basic alphabet, making it ideal for beginners.

Learning how to write in a new script, from right to left, is an important task for beginning Arabic learners. While most beginning textbooks integrate this skill practice into the lessons, some students need or desire additional practice. Further, students outside of a classroom who do not receive regular feedback may need additional practice. Barbara Romaine developed a small handwriting practice workbook that combines tracing of letters and words with listening, which builds and strengthens students' reading and comprehension. This short, twenty-page workbook includes handwritten words for students to trace on tracing paper, which is bound into the book. The workbook is brief and practical and provides learners with something that is available for other languages but not for adult learners of Arabic. Audio of the words will be freely available on our website (downloadable MP3s) so that students can practice writing and listening simultaneously, further building their skills.
