Education is at a crossroads. While bureaucrats and teachers fight over the best way to structure and deliver education to students, much of the friction generated relates to the different conceptions of what education is about in the first place. The crisis in education is therefore of key importance and demands careful attention in order to formulate the best possible response. But before policies can be formulated, there needs to be a clear agreement on what education should be about. To this end, this collection of previously published essays facilitates just such discussion. The anthology is designed to give a snapshot of the seminal work in the philosophy of education and the input of ethical issues upon that work. It provides an authoritative tour of the profession and pivotal issues that confront it, written from a variety of international and critical perspectives.

Annual Report of the Central Board of Education

This book de-myths the oft repeated claim of 'natural disaster' and puts forward socio-economic factors as the cause for the recurrence of disasters. With this framework, the author examines the popular notion of the Vulnerable India in psycho-geographical terms and unmasks the dimensions of vulnerability itself. In doing so the author foregrounds the factors that create and perpetuate vulnerability of the marginalized sections of the society and of the nation and redefines the phrase Vulnerable India. Presenting a national level inquiry, the three sections of the book called the Fact, Response, and Reality, spell a convincing argument for why disasters recur in India. To provide a historical understanding of India's continued failure to adequately contain damage to life and property, the book unravels the perceptions of disasters in traditional, colonial and modern India. It redefines the debate on new terms such as 'disasterscape', 'the killed', 'disaster index', 'disaster divide' and 'vulnerability cluster', to better represent the patterns that engender vulnerability. With the aid of exhaustive research, comparative statistical analyses and illustrative maps, it provides incisive insight into 16 different geophysical across 594 districts of the country. This book is ideal for students of geography, environmental sociology, development studies, social work and disaster management, and also for policy makers. Investment in human capital is a critical part of every country's strategy for development even for India.With the increasing pace of technological advances and globalisation rapidly taking over: India is all set to become the next hub for economic growth. Adding to this is a young population with an average age of 29 years, which puts India at an advantage. But is India's human capital prepared to face the challenge? The role of education is crucial in this aspect, and it is high time that we rethink our approach towards necessary education policies. The focus here is on basic school education as it lays the foundation for an individual's future and career and is also facing some severe problems. For a long time, the education sector has been facing many challenges in terms of poor infrastructure development, limited investment and a shortage of trained teachers. The need of the hour is to push potential investment in the education sector in order to build the digital infrastructure and provide quality education. Education in India has recently earned worldwide attention not only from educationists, but also from researchers, entrepreneurs, technologists, innovators, investors, international agencies and the government.

Innumerable interventions are being designed and implemented on a daily basis to improve the quality of education in the country. Education is among the Top Five Fastest Growing Commodities in terms of consumer expenditure in India, and consumption expenditure towards education is growing at a CAGR of 6.3%. With a growing disposable income, the spending power of the Indian consumer is increasing day by day.

Considering the importance given to education by an average Indian consumer coupled with the growing demand for advanced skills in the job market, the proportion of individual income towards education is poised to increase going forward.
