Milner debunks a number of groundless myths and counter-productive training practices that proliferate in today's sporting dog culture. A big divide exists today in the gundog sector in America. The opposing views are tradition-based compulsion training versus the science-based positive training model derived from B.F. Skinner's operant conditioning theory. Robert Milner's new book bridges that gap. Milner brings to the table vast experience in both training methods. He has trained over two thousand gundogs with traditional compulsion and has trained several hundred gundogs with a positive training model. He pronounces the positive model a definitive winner. His new book covers all the bases for a beginning gundog trainer. Milner covers the dog's history and domestication as it relates to training. He shows you how the dog perceives the world, how the dog communicates, and how he learns. Big surprises await some readers. Milner cites many examples of recent dog research that upend traditional training theories. This book gives the reader a simple roadmap to success in producing a gundog that is extremely well-mannered, a persistent hunter and very responsive on whistle stops and hand signals. The simplicity of the training model will be a pleasant surprise to many new trainers. Most importantly, Milner's training model is fun for the trainer and the dog.*

You want to know the Easy Part first. Confused? Don't be. Walk with me: The Major Key to Training Your Labrador Retriever is: How to Communicate Like a Labrador Retriever. In order to communicate with anyone, you both need to be thinking in the same language. Once you got that down, all the hurdles drop out of sight while your training goals appear in place of them, making the dog training experience seemingly effortlessly in comparison.Thinking alike comes first, then follows communication. So what exactly is thinking?When thinking to ourselves, we ask ourselves questions and answer them in our head. That is what 'thinking is'. Communicating is simply thinking out loud with others by asking and answering questions with them as the Icebreaker to understanding one another. This thinking and then the communication thing we do together as humans, Is simple to us. Humans can communicate with other humans easily and without consciously trying to speak correctly. It is natural. Even so, if one human does not speak the other human's language, frustration overrides the process, difficulties loom larger and success is now unattainable. Thinking like a human while speaking to a dog who is thinking like a dog, well, there's today's challenge. It is the gap that between you and your Labrador Retriever success, that which must be adjoined first in mutual understanding.Quickest way; is to learn your dog's language first. Asking him to learn English first will never work because you will be asking him in human English which he does not understand to begin with.Dogs are not nearly as complex in the head as we humans are. And this is why we must give-in to learning their language first. Question is now: How to speak in Labrador Retriever? Answer: It is called 'Dogmanship'Dogmanship is the human ability to effectively communicate with your dog, by learning his language, and how he thinks, reacts and communicates with other dogs. Using this ability to communicate in the way your dog understands you fully to effectively train your dog in the easiest, quickest most wonderful life changing ways imaginable.Plus, I decided to throw in for free, my "New Dog Times Jump Start Training" guide. Retriever Puppy Training presents a program of basic training that will turn young retrievers into efficient and enthusiastic hunting companions. A step-by-step teaching schedule provides the continuity so important to fostering a puppy's confidence. A favorite with people starting out with their first retriever or those who want to raise a hunting companion from puppyhood, the program is equally effective with young dogs starting beyond that age. Experienced handlers and those planning to trial or hunt test their dogs will also find it helpful.This dog training book covers puppy selection, puppy personality types, basic housedog manners, and a progressive retriever training program that includes water retrieves, blinds, and marks. When your pup has completed this program, he will be ready to hunt. You will have worked out of all the excuses that retrievers try to use, and you will have a well-mannered companion. *Retriever Training - Dog Training for your Retriever puppy The training of dogs is often..... confused with classical dog training drills ... only considered necessary for demanding dogs ... mocked by other dog owners ... replaced by anti-authoritarian methods ... considered too difficult to achieve without experience. What constitutes dog training and what is it good for? And how can you and your Retriever profit from it without having any experience? The most important thing is to understand how a dog sees his world, what is "normal" for him and how you can use this to your advantage. In addition, the characteristics of each breed are significant when you get beyond the basic training phase. Your Retriever will show characteristics which are different to those of a Husky, for example, and this is predominantly what you need to consider during training. This book is vol. 1 of the Golden Retriever training books. Vol. 2 for your grown up Golden Retriever is also available with the title "Golden Retriever Training Vol. 2: Dog Training for your grown-up Golden Retriever" Author Claudia Kaiser says about her book: "It was my desire to let other dog owners profit from the knowledge I have gained over many years, and after making many mistakes. I love my dog and know how important it is to adapt the training to suit each breed. It is exactly this desire that prompted me to write this book. My aim is to help every beginner, not only to understand his dog better, but also to know exactly how to get the best results, step-by-step, so that you can achieve a close, positive and trusting human-dog relationship."
